

Marking of locations on an avalanche

according to ICAR (International Commission for Alpine Rescue)

Border = yellow markers

Searched areas = Red markers

Persons and objects found = blue markers

- Can also mark Entrance track of persons involved

Last-seen point = two crossed objects

Dog clue = Orange marker

Flags marking indications and clues are used in pairs (joined in the middle with a rubber O-ring) and placed side-by-side vertically with the flags opposing to maximize visibility.

Once a clue or an indication has been checked the flags are then re-set in the crossed position.

If a flagged area has been double-checked a second pair of crossed flags can be used.

All flags remain in position until the search has been completed.
