Oil Painting Reproduction

£846 GBP

Condition: Unframed

We frame canvas prints only, but not oil paintings.
There is a basic reason for not framing the oil paintings.
The hand-painted oil paintings are expensive product and the risk of damages during transport of stretched on a frame painting is too high.
You can imagine the risk of damaging and breaking the painting when it is stretched on a frame.
The second reason is the post expenses of the framed paintings and carrier limitations of the large shipments.
Sometimes postage costs go beyond the price of the painting itself.

*We ship our oil paintings rolled-up. You will be able to stretch and frame your canvas in your local frame-shop.

Creation Process

We create our paintings with museum quality and covering the highest academic standards. Once we get your order, it will be entirely hand-painted with oil on canvas. All the materials we use are the highest level, being totally artist-graded painting materials and linen canvas.

We will add 1.6" (4 cm) additional blank canvas all over the painting for stretching.

High quality and detailing in every inch are time consuming. The reproduction of Sir Edwin Henry Landseer also needs time to dry in order to be completely ready for shipping, as this is crucial to not be damaged during transportation.
Based on the size, level of detail and complexity we need 8-9 weeks to complete the process.

In case the delivery date needs to be extended in time, or we are overloaded with requests, there will be an email sent to you sharing the new timelines of production and delivery.

TOPofART wants to remind you to keep patient, in order to get you the highest quality, being our mission to fulfill your expectations.

We not stretch and frame our oil paintings due to several reasons:
Painting reproduction is a high-quality expensive product, which we cannot risk to damage by sending it being stretched.
Also, there are postal restrictions, regarding the size of the shipment.
Additionally, due to the dimensions of the stretched canvas, the shipment price may exceed the price of the product itself.

You can stretch and frame your painting in your local frame-shop.

Delivery

Once the painting Falcon is ready and dry, it will be shipped to your delivery address. The canvas will be rolled-up in a secure postal tube.

Museum Quality

Over 20 Years Experience
Only Museum Quality

The paintings we create are only of museum quality. Our academy graduated artists will never allow a compromise in the quality and detail of the ordered painting. TOPofART do not work, and will never allow ourselves to work with low quality studios from the Far East. We are based in Europe, and quality is our highest priority.
