Saudi Falcons Club, this year's exhibition marks a significant expansion, occupying 160,000 square meters and featuring a diverse array of attractions.

In a groundbreaking move, it hosts the Kingdom's first platform for selling hunting weapons, with Saudi companies representing more than 55 global brands, alongside special and rare editions for hunting enthusiasts. The event also provides real and virtual hunting experiences.

Waleed Al-Taweel, spokesperson of the Saudi Falcons Club, emphasized the exhibition's role in preserving cultural heritage.

“We are not just showcasing falconry, we are sustaining a legacy,” he stated, highlighting the falcon’s symbolic importance in Saudi culture as an emblem of courage and pride.

He emphasized that the exhibition highlights falcons, hunting, and related hobbies to revive this ancient Saudi legacy, in line with Saudi Vision 2030’s goal of showcasing and sustaining Saudi heritage and enhancing its role in cultural tourism both domestically and internationally.

Visitors can engage in a wide range of activities, offering hands-on insights into falcon husbandry and training.

Attendees can explore a vast marketplace where hundreds of vendors display state-of-the-art falconry gear, innovative technologies, and specialized dietary products for these prized birds.

A notable addition this year is the Future Falconer Program, designed to introduce children to the art of falconry through interactive and educational activities.

The exhibition also includes an outdoor cooking demonstration area, the Shalayel Digital Museum, a photography exhibition, a live fine art gallery, an area for arts, handicrafts, and sculpture, interactive games, and remote-controlled aircraft shows.

Adventure
seekers can enjoy 4x4 vehicle
experiences, equestrian
shows, and drone

The organizers have made the event accessible to all, with free entry daily from 4 p.m. to 11 p.m.

aid agency KSrelief is continuing to provide essential food baskets to families in northern Gaza, the Saudi Press Agency reported on Saturday.

The relief effort is being conducted in cooperation with the Saudi Center for Culture and Heritage as part of a campaign initiated under the directives of the Saudi leadership.

The humanitarian situation in northern Gaza remains dire, exacerbated by ongoing hostilities and border closures. Saudi aid is crucial to supporting families as they confront daily hardships and critical shortages.

Meanwhile, the 21st aid plane sent from Riyadh to Lebanon arrived at Beirut-

Rafic Hariri
International Airport on Saturday,
carrying food,
shelter and medical supplies.

The aid, handled by KSrelief, will be used to assist the growing number of people displaced by Israeli airstrikes.

The UAE,
Turkiye, Iraq,
Egypt, Jordan,
Canada, Romania
and France are also sending aid to Lebanon.

Since its inception in 2015, KSrelief has implemented
more than 3,100
projects worth
more than $7.1
billion in 104
countries, in cooperation with later this month, Saudi Press Agency reported on Saturday.

Taking place with the support of Minister of Defense Prince Khalid bin Salman from Nov. 18-19 under the theme “Development and Empowerment,” the event will “underscore the role played by non-commissioned officers and promote shared practices in leadership empowerment,” SPA said.

Non-commissioned officers, or NCOs, are military personnel who have risen through the ranks and look after the day-to-day management of military operations, supervise enlisted soldiers and assist commissioned officers.

The forum will also look to facilitate the exchange of leadership experiences and success stories with military counterparts
both within and outside the Kingdom.

Organized by NCOs from the Ministry of Defense and overseen by the Chief of the General Staff Lt.
Gen. Fayyadh bin
Hamed Al-Ruwaili, the forum will feature dialogue
sessions focused on topics such as enhancing leadership competency and empowering women within the ministry.

Participants will include officers from the ministry, other military branches and allied nations.

The event will also feature lectures and an exhibition will run alongside the forum, spotlighting the ministry's development program for leadership roles of non-commissioned officers, as well as highlighting its P'tizaz and Together
programs.

RIYADH: The Ancient Kingdoms Festival, being held in AlUla until Nov. 30, is celebrating the rich history of the ancient civilizations that once thrived in the region.

The festival combines heritage and culture through a variety of events including daytime activities, exploratory tours, and night excursions inspired by ancient stories, all guided by specialized teams, Saudi Press Agency reported.

A highlight is an exhibition from the National Archaeological Museum of Naples, “Masterpieces of the MANN,” hosted at the Maraya cultural venue.

For the first time
in Saudi Arabia,
visitors can explore the legacy of the eruption of Mount Vesuvius
in A.D. 79
through artifacts from Pompeii and Herculaneum,
the Roman cities buried under volcanic ash.

Pieces from the renowned Farnese
Collection
housing ancient Greek and Roman art are also on show.

Other unique experiences
include the “Hegra After Dark” event at Saudi Arabia’s
first UNESCO
World Heritage
Site, drone shows, and the Hegra Candlelit Classics series of concerts.

Visitors can also join the “Quest for the Ancient Kingdoms” tour in Wadi Al-Naam, or Valley of the Ostriches, known for its dramatic rock formations.

“The Incense Road Experience” in AlUla’s Old Town offers an immersive journey through narrow alleys lined with traditional mud-brick buildings.

The experience blends live performances and modern technology to tell interactive stories, unveiling archaeological treasures in a captivating mix of past and present.

The National Archaeological Museum of Naples recently joined the commission’s network of cultural partners, aligning with heritage and educational institutions from the UK, France, China, and Italy to collaborate on preserving, studying, and celebrating AlUla's 20,000-year-old heritage.

Established in 1777, the museum is a prominent landmark in one of Italy's heritage capitals.

It houses some of Europe's most treasured cultural artefacts, including exceptionally well-preserved Roman and Greek statues, bronze pieces, mosaics, and other artworks.

RIYADH: A platform on wheels has been rolled out to celebrate and promote traditional arts through a tour across the Kingdom’s regions.

The “Craftsman Bus,” an initiative of the Royal Institute of Traditional Arts, will run until Nov. 23, offering cultural and creative experiences with live performances, original_referer=https://www.arabnews.com%2F&ref_src=twsrc%5Etfw%7Ctwcamp%5Ebut activities, parades, creative workshops and community art showcases.

Each weekend, the bus stops at King Faisal Park (Education Park) in Hafr Al-Batin governorate, the historic market in Dumat Al-Jandal governorate, and concludes its journey at the heritage village in Jazan.

The event features live demonstrations by skilled local craftsmen, showcasing traditional arts such as Sadu weaving, hand embroidery, wickerwork, leather tanning, incense making, stone carving and metal crafting to create ornaments and jewelry with a traditional flair.

It offers visitors the opportunity to learn traditional crafts and unleash their creativity through interactive artistic workshops.

The bus travels to selected
locations, showcasing
performances that highlight the unique cultural heritage of each region.

The journey begins with Samri art in Hafar Al-Batin
governorate, continues with Dahha art in Dumat Al-Jandal
governorate and concludes with the vibrant Azzawi art in Jazan, bringing traditional performing arts closer to communities.

The Royal Institute of Traditional Arts
is a pioneering institution dedicated to showcasing Saudi Arabia's national identity and elevating
traditional arts
on both the local and global stages.

Its mission is to preserve the heritage of these arts, celebrate living treasures and pioneers, and recognize distinguished individuals in the field.

By supporting national talent and encouraging the mastery and development of traditional crafts, the institute is ensuring that the rich legacy of Saudi Arabia's creative arts remains vibrant, innovative and celebrated for generations to come.
